

Rethinking Australian Jewish Community: policy and practice

JWM 4050/5050

This unit will frame issues of community, communal service and leadership from a range of perspectives. It will cover policy issues relating to Australian Jewish life in the 21st century including education, multiculturalism, social and welfare issues, philanthropy, the arts and culture, and forms of Jewish identification. The unit will be presented in a dynamic way featuring guest lecturers, experts in the various fields, as well as key professionals from the community sector.

Rethinking Australian Jewish Community: policy and practice will be held as an intensive from Sunday 25 January to Thursday 29 January, 2009 inclusive at Caulfield Campus, Monash University.

This unit is open to suitably qualified members of the community as auditing students, without responsibility for assessment for $1200. Partial bursaries may be offered.

For more information email melanie.landau@arts.monash.edu.au or call 0425 825 362

www.arts.monash.edu/acjc

MONASH University
Australian Centre for Jewish Civilisation

G  Boldly.

CRICOS provider: Monash University 00008C